By express agreement and unless a deferral in time is requested and granted by the Service Provider in a specific manner, failure to pay on the due date of the invoices and a reminder will automatically and without prior notice (notwithstanding the termination clause) result in the immediate payment of all sums remaining due, regardless of the method of payment set out, and in the invoicing of late payment interest calculated at a monthly rate of 1% or the maximum amount according to the applicable law. These General Terms and Conditions do not imply the transfer of any intellectual property rights to the Customer, subject to the granting of certain rights by the Service Provider to the Customer which shall be subject to an explicit written agreement between the Parties. Any deviating provisions in this respect shall be governed by the terms of the contract entered into between the Service Provider and the Customer.

The Service Provider shall own all suggestions, recommendations, improvement or enhancement request or other feedback provided by Customer or User(s) regarding the Services, Product and Solution, and where applicable the Customer hereby makes and/or undertakes to make all assignments and take all reasonable acts necessary to accomplish the foregoing assignment to and ownership by the Service Provider.

The Service Provider warrants that it owns the intellectual property rights or has the necessary authorisations to market the Product. The Service Provider guarantees to the Customer the peaceful enjoyment of the rights granted to it on the Products it publishes.

Each Party shall indemnify and hold the other Party harmless against any action or claim based on infringement of (any third party) intellectual property right, unfair competition or commercial freeriding, aimed at restricting or prohibiting the use of the Product covered by the Agreement, provided that: 1) the affected Party has notified the other Party within a reasonable time of the action or claim; 2) the other Party has been able to defend its own interests as well as those of the affected Party freely and at its own expense, and the affected Party has cooperated loyally in such defence by providing, in a timely manner, all the elements necessary to carry out such defence; 3) the affected Party accepts that the other Party may negotiate the withdrawal of the claimant at its own discretion except that the affected Party may not settle any claim unless it unconditionally releases the other Party of all liability; and 4) the dispute relates to an element of the Product.

In the event of a ban on the use of all or part of the elements for which the rights have been assigned, the Service Provider shall endeavour (at its option): either to obtain the right for the Customer to continue to use the element concerned at no additional cost to the Customer; or to modify the Product in order to avoid infringement; or to provide a replacement solution; or (only in the case of Purchase) to reimburse the Customer a part of the sums already paid for the Product, taking into account the time during which the Customer was able to use the Product.

The Customer acknowledges that all these actions taken separately constitute sufficient compensation.

8 SUSPENSION OF SERVICES

In the event of non-payment of undisputed invoices, the Service Provider may suspend the services after a period of 15 calendar days without effect.

If the Customer has not paid in full the amounts due within 15 calendar days, the Service Provider may suspend all services until the amounts due have been paid in full, including interest on arrears. This suspension shall not result in any change in the price set or in the application of any penalties by the Customer.

If Customer's Customer Site or use of the Services (i) is being subjected to denial of service attacks or other disruptive activity; (ii) is being used to engage in denial of service attacks or other disruptive activity; (iii) is creating a security vulnerability for the Services or others; (iv) is consuming excessive bandwidth; or, (v) is causing harm to the Service Provider or others, then the Service Provider may, with electronic notice to Customer, suspend all or any access to the Subscription.

In addition, the Service Provider may suspend the services at any time if their use proves to be illegal, and/or likely to jeopardise the overall quality of its services (for example and in a non-exhaustive manner: sending spam, defamatory remarks or documents, violation of personal rights, attempted hacking, attempted interception of voice messages, or messages of a promotional nature commonly known as "junk mail", breach of public order or morality, etc.).

9 TERMINATION FOR FAULT

Each Party may terminate the Services (Subscriptions and Projects) by registered letter with acknowledgement of receipt in the event of failure by the other Party to fulfil its obligations hereunder and without this failure being remedied within 30 calendar days after formal notice, subject to any damages to which it may be entitled. All services rendered will remain due.

The Service Provider is authorized, without any demand or notice of default being required, to terminate the Agreement with immediate effect, without judicial or arbitral intervention, if:

- a) by or with regard to the Client, (provisional) suspension of payments or bankruptcy is applied for or granted;
- (b) a considerable part of the assets of the Customer or goods made available by or on behalf of the Customer are seized and this seizure is not lifted within a short term;
- (c) the business of the Customer is wound up or the Customer ceases its present business, or if that Customer is a legal entity, the ownership relations in that legal entity change substantially, or it is dissolved;
- (d) use of the Product in violation of the intellectual property rights granted by the Service Provider.
- (e) the Customer otherwise fails to meet any other obligation under the Agreement, in full and/or on time;
- f) in all cases sub a) to d), always without prejudice to the Service Provider's right to compensation

The Customer shall be entitled to terminate the contract if the Service Provider repeatedly and seriously breaches it or is guilty of wilful misconduct in the performance of its obligations under the contract.

If the contract between the Service Provider and the Customer is terminated, with or without the application of the right of termination described in these General Terms and Conditions, the Customer loses the right to demand that the Service Provider fulfil its obligations under the terminated contract.

10 LIABILITY

The following stipulations allocate liabilities between the Service Provider and the Customer; the agreed prices reflect this allocation of responsibilities and the resulting limitation of liability.

The Customer declares that it is fully aware that the Product may have technical malfunctions or may not function fully and continuously.

The Customer shall have no recourse against the Service Provider for minor changes to the services and/or products if these are technically necessary or result from technical, technological, production and aesthetic developments. This applies on the condition that these changes do not affect the specific and essential functional and external characteristics for the Customer. The Service Provider undertakes to inform the Customer thereof in writing.

The Service Provider shall not be liable for loss of profits, loss of revenue whether or not resulting from interruption of the Customer's business, loss of customers, operational damage, loss of information or any direct or indirect damage suffered by the Customer arising from the services or products on a contractual or tortious basis, except to the extent that such damage results from gross negligence, fraud, wilful misconduct or wilful breach of duty by the Service Provider. The Service Provider shall not be liable for any damage resulting from the quality of the Customer's internet connection or any malfunction of the Customer's workstation, including but not limited to hardware and/or software not complying with applicable specifications (including updates). The Service Provider shall also not be liable for defects caused directly or indirectly by the Customer or a third party, whether by error or negligence, nor for services performed by a third party without the Service Provider's express consent.

In On Premise mode, the Customer undertakes to make regular backups of its data (at least daily) to minimise any damage which might be caused by data loss.

In all circumstance, the Service Provider's liability shall be limited to 60% of the amounts invoiced by the Provider and paid by the Customer in the 12 months preceding the incident excluding any fees paid for SMS/MMS credits

The Service Provider certifies that it is insured with a reputable insurance company for all liabilities it may incur under the Agreement and upon request undertakes to provide the Customer with a certificate.

The Customer agrees to indemnify and defend the Service Provider against all actions, expenses, damages, losses, liabilities or costs arising out of or in connection with the Customer's breach of its obligations.

Failure by the Customer to comply with a material obligation (including failure to comply with the Service Provider's instructions [including manuals] and any legal or other requirements) shall relieve the Service Provider of its liability.

The Customer acknowledges and agrees that Third Party Sites and Third Party Products are not under the Service Provider control and that, if provided, Third Party Sites and Third Party Products are provided only as a convenience. The availability of any Third Party Site or Third Party Product does not mean the Service Provider endorse, support or warrant the Third Party Site or Third Party Product and the Service Provider disclaims all liability (on behalf of itself and its licensors) with respect to Third Party Products that the Customer may use in connection with the Subscription Service.

The Customer is liable for any acts and omissions taken by the User.

11 FORCE MAJEURE

Neither party shall be liable for any default or delay in the performance of its obligations under this Agreement if such default or delay results from unforeseeable causes beyond its reasonable control. The party claiming to be affected by such force majeure event shall immediately notify the other party in writing and each party shall use reasonable efforts to mitigate the effect of the force majeure event.

Insofar as such cases continue for a period exceeding one (1) month, the Parties agree to enter into discussions with a view to finding an agreement. If no agreement or alternative is possible, the contract may be terminated by the Party whose obligations are not affected by the force majeure event.

The following are considered to be cases of force majeure, without this being restrictive: strikes, uncertainties specific to the Internet, acts of computer hacking which could not be avoided by the security measures agreed between the Parties, act of war, hostility or sabotage, or electrical, internet or telecommunication outage that is not caused by the obligated party and that cannot reasonably be overcome.

12 SEVERABILITY

The possible invalidity of one of the provisions of these General Terms and Conditions or part of a provision does not affect the applicability of the other provisions and/or the rest of the provision. In the event that any provision is invalid, the Service Provider and the Customer shall, to the extent possible and to the best of their knowledge and belief, negotiate in good faith to replace the invalid provision with an equivalent provision that corresponds to the general spirit of these Terms and Conditions.

13 LACK OF WAIVER

The fact that one of the Parties does not insist on the performance by the other Party of any of the provisions of these General Terms and Conditions shall not be construed as a waiver by that Party of its right to assert that provision, right or remedy.

14 BALANCE CLAUSE

These General Terms and Conditions are considered by the Parties to be balanced. These General Terms and Conditions shall therefore always be interpreted taking into account the concrete circumstances of the collaboration.

15 PROTECTION OF PERSONAL DATA

15.1 General information

The Parties will comply with all applicable personal data protection laws, including, but not limited to, the European Regulation (EU) 2016/679 of 27 April 2016 on the protection of individuals with regard to the processing of personal data and on the free movement of such data ("GDPR"). This includes the obligation to inform data subjects in accordance with Articles 12 to 14 of the GDPR and to have a legal basis for processing personal data.

The role of the Service Provider (controller or processor) with respect to personal data processed in the context of the execution of the General Terms and Conditions is specified either below or in its privacy policy.

15.2 The Service Provider as sub-contractor

Where the Customer provides personal data to the Service Provider in the context of its use of the Subscribed Service, Subscriptions, the Solution and/or any add-ons, and requests the Service Provider to process personal data on its own behalf for the sole purpose of providing the Customer with the Subscribed Service, Subscriptions, the Solution and/or any add-ons, the Customer shall act as a data controller in the processing of such personal data and the Service Provider shall act as a data processor (as defined by the GDPR).

In this respect, the Service Provider undertakes to guarantee the confidentiality of the personal data that may be processed in the context of the services and to ensure that the persons authorised to process such personal data are bound by an appropriate obligation of confidentiality of legal or, failing that, contractual origin, and receive the necessary training in the protection of personal data.

The conditions under which the various processing operations are carried out by the Service Provider as a subcontractor (within the meaning of the GDPR) are described in Annex 4 of these General Terms and Conditions in accordance with Article 28 of the GDPR.

15.3 The Service Provider as data controller

In the context of these General Terms and Conditions, the Service Provider may also process the Customer's personal data as a data controller. This personal data may be processed for the following purposes:

- Administration and management of the relationship with the Customer;
- In the context of and during the contractual and pre-contractual relationship with the Customer;
- When the Customer contacts us by email, post, telephone or any other communication channel, e.g. in order to answer any questions/requests;
- Management of complaints, after-sales service and guarantees;
- Carrying out sales and marketing activities;
- The development of business statistics; and
- Where the processing is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.

In the event of subcontracting within the meaning of the GDPR, the Service Provider is obliged to appoint a subcontractor who complies with the GDPR and takes adequate technical and organisational measures to ensure the proper processing of personal data.

The Customer can find further information on the processing of their personal data, as well as the exercise of their rights (e.g. the right of access, rectification, deletion, opposition, etc.), in the "privacy policy" accessible on the Service Provider's website. The Customer can always contact the DPO by email at: privacy@efficy.com.

16 CONFIDENTIALITY

The Receiving Party shall (i) protect the confidentiality of the Confidential Information using the same degree of care that it uses with its own confidential information of similar nature (but not less than reasonable care); (ii) not use any Confidential Information for any purpose outside the scope of this Agreement; (iii) except as otherwise authorized by the Disclosing Party in writing, limit access to Confidential Information to those of its employees and contractors who need that access for purposes consistent with this Agreement and who have signed confidentiality agreements with the Receiving Party containing protections no less stringent than those herein. Upon notice to the Disclosing Party (to the extent notice is legally permitted), the Receiving Party may disclose Confidential Information if required by mandatory law, regulation or legal process.

Upon a written request from the Disclosing Party, the Receiving Party shall promptly return or destroy any Confidential Information (excluding Customer Data, which will be deleted in accordance with the annex 4).

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary, the Service Provider shall have the right to collect and analyse data and other information relating to the provision, use and performance of various aspects of the Product and related systems and technologies (including information aggregated from Customer Data and data derived therefrom), and the Service Provider shall (during and after the term of the Agreement) be entitled to (i) use such information and data to improve and enhance the Product and for other development, diagnostic and corrective purposes in connection with the Services; and, (ii) disclose such data solely in aggregate or other de-identified form in connection with its business. No rights or licenses are granted except as expressly set forth herein.

17 NON-SOLICITATION

During the term of the Agreement as well as one (1) year after its termination, the Customer is not permitted, either directly or indirectly, to employ or otherwise, directly or indirectly, without the Service Provider's prior written permission, to have employees of the Service Provider who have been involved in the execution of the Agreement work for them, or to approach them in any way, on pain of an immediately payable penalty of EUR 50,000 (in words: fifty thousand Euros) per violation of this prohibition.

18 ASSIGNMENT

All or part of the rights and obligations between the Parties may not be transferred or assigned by a Party to a third party unless the Parties agree otherwise in writing.

However, each Party remains free to assign or transfer all or part of its rights and obligations hereunder to a company in its group without the prior consent of the other Party, subject to informing the latter.

19 SETTLING OF DISPUTES

Except in cases of urgency, the Parties acknowledge that they will make their best efforts to favour amicable solutions in any deadlock situation.

In the event of deadlock, the Party with an interest in the matter shall refer the matter to the other Party by registered letter with acknowledgement of receipt for the purpose of attempting to reach an amicable settlement.

The Customer undertakes to react as soon as possible to any request for information made by the support. The deadlines specified at 26.2 shall be suspended until the Service Provider has obtained all the information requested.

Procedure if the Customer has an Integrator
